Achievement

University is not for everyone.

We have lots of students that achieve very highly at GCSE and A-Level that go on to different studies.

Some students might be driven by apprenticeships and the courses that they offer.

Higher or degree level apprenticeships

Jobs in: Business, Finance, IT, Engineering, Law and many others

Pros of a degree apprenticeship

- ✓ You'll get real-life experience working alongside your degree.
- ✓ Your degree is fully paid for, so there's no cost to you.
- ✓ You'll get paid a salary just like a normal employee.

Cons of a degree apprenticeship

- ✗ You'll need to balance working and studying at the same time.
- ✗ You won't qualify for any student loans.
- ✗ Apprentices don't always get the traditional 'university experience'.

They are a great opportunity but are highly competitive
